What local community members have to say about poverty...

There are so many levels of poverty here in Antigonish. We look at our senior citizens, and they are going hungry. Because their money is going toward prescriptions, they are not getting enough to eat. But they are the silent people, right, they are the people in our community who aren't speaking up. People on assistance—the same thing. They are robbing Peter to pay Paul. So do you eat, or do you eat, or do you use the money for something you need besides the basic needs?

Poverty reduction has been going on for quite some time. I went down to Halifax and walked for the Poverty Coalition. I walked against poverty in Nova Scotia, in the 90s. We did. And what's happening? Nothing is happening.

I feel discriminated against because I live in poverty. I received clothing vouchers for a second hand clothing store. I needed clothes, but if I went to the racks that said $2 and $5, or a nice coat or a pair of boots that said $5, [the workers there said] I wasn't entitled to have those. I had to have money. I would explain to these women, "The reason I'm here is because I'm living in poverty. It's not my fault I don't have $5, this is just the situation." It's almost as if I have to tell people I am mentally ill over and over and over again. I feel discriminated against because I don't have money to buy clothing that I should be entitled to. I think we should all be entitled to the basic essentials of life.

You know why people smoke? Poverty. When you smoke, it cuts down on food cravings. That's why people smoke. They smoke because of anxiety disorder. That's why people smoke. They smoke because rich people make them.

Poverty is not having money to pay your bills. Living paycheck to paycheck. Not having enough money to support yourself. Not being able to afford the necessities. Not being able to work because of disability, and not having enough money for a normal life. Not having enough money to get the things you need, and to function properly in society. You need money to function in society.

Introduction

Between June and December 2011, the Antigonish Poverty Reduction Coalition (APRC) conducted focus groups through Antigonish Town and County. Marion MacNeil, GASHA Public Health Nurse, and Paula Cameron, APRC Project Coordinator, asked over 100 community members:

- How could your community be even better?
- What needs to happen for health and wellbeing to be equally shared by all?

Sincere thanks to all who participated in the focus group process; we are grateful for your generosity and insight. Your perspectives and stories form the substance of this document.

As the breadth of the action plan reflects, there is room in this process for many kinds of work, from creating community art projects that explore local housing issues, to writing letters to government officials advocating for universal childcare or guaranteed livable incomes, to serving on an action committee for housing, education, health services, or childcare.

Some of this work has already begun, and part of the Coalition's work will be supporting and collaborating with initiatives under way on poverty related issues.

Although the APRC consists of over fifty diverse organizations and individuals, its members share a commitment to eliminating poverty in our community.

The action plan process has been guided by the idea that poverty in Antigonish Town and County affects every single one of us; similarly, addressing poverty at its root will require the support and commitment of all people living here.

This action plan was created by the community, for the community. It is a living document, open to change and improvement. It is meant as a starting point, a guide for work that needs to happen—work that requires the participation and commitment of every person living in our community, including our government and business leaders.

As the focus groups affirm, there is no “us” and “them” when it comes to these issues: taking on the actions suggested here will improve the well-being of all of us.

Antigonish is talking about poverty;
it is time to join the conversation.

The APRC appreciates its growing support from our community as we work to address these issues.

For example, this action plan was reviewed and workshopped by over 70 community members; thank you to each one of you for your valuable feedback.

The Issues

People living below the poverty line encounter multiple barriers to health and well-being. APRC focus groups identified eight major themes requiring action. Often these themes work together.

For example, here in Antigonish, high housing costs in the town cause many individuals and families to move to outlying areas in the county. Because our community does not currently have an affordable and physically accessible community transit system, many people rely on hitchhiking, expensive taxis, or occasional drives from neighbors. Transportation issues mean limited access to health services, employment, food, and recreation; when we pay for taxis, the money takes away from funds allocated for rent, heat, food, and prescriptions.

There are various patterns weaving through this puzzle: colonialism, systemic racism, discrimination against people living with disabilities, and gender inequality. A comprehensive action plan to address poverty must hold together these interconnected issues and their social contexts, each an important puzzle piece in the health and well-being of our community.

Transportation

People going to appointments were then told to take the Canso bus. If you've got an appointment at 3pm at the hospital in Antigonish, the Canso bus is back by 1pm. That's no good. It's just no good.

Transportation I think is a big issue, a central issue for other problems that we have. If we fixed that, then it would help with the rest.

I used to live out in the county, and it's hard to get into town. People have to drive you. And for university students, it can be hard to get to class, so it affects your education.

I know a lot of people complain about having to get to Superstore and Walmart. If there's something they need there, they have a very difficult time. They have to walk along a very busy highway, and cross it usually. Even going to Sobey's, even if you live on campus you have to take multiple trips if you don't have transportation. How are you going to get it home, if you don't have the money for a taxi?

Transportation, it really blows my mind. Even if you get a friend to take you, it's hard, people ask me, but I have to tell them, I'm not a taxi. With the cost of gas, what can you do?

I worked at the hospital but traveling back and forth and the wintertime made it even harder. From there I went to EI, from EI to social services. I'm just going backward now.

From this community, the taxi is $60 per return trip to town. For a person who makes $523 a month from community services and pays $450 a month for rent, tell me what she has left for groceries and to get to the doctor?

We don't have good enough transportation at all. I see people hitchhiking. A lot of young people hitchhike. It's dangerous, especially on the Trans Canada.

Action Priorities: TRANSPORTATION

Leads: Town & County Council¹

Antigonish Public Transportation Stakeholder Committee (GASHA, ASD, ARDA, APRC, ACALA)

Town and County Recreation, St FX Students and Administration

Action Item	Strategy	Timeframe
Develop statement of economic impact for transportation issues	Work with community members to research, collate, & present detailed report on the economic impacts of gaps in transportation services	Short term: Years 1-2
Conduct a feasibility study for a town & county transportation system	Apply for funding for a feasibility study & conduct the study	Short term: Years 1-2
Connect with other Nova Scotia transit networks	Build relationships & share resources with The Nova Scotia Community-Based Transportation Association, Acadian Lines bus company, & other community transit groups like Kings Transit Authority	Short term: Years 1-2
Coordinate current ad-hoc transportation initiatives ²	Create a website to facilitate ridesharing and existing services such as the VON CareVan and private taxi companies	Short term: Years 1-2
Create town/county transit authority	Coordinate & mobilize existing community networks & assets, APRC members & partners will work with the following groups in planning a county-wide authority for physically & economically accessible transportation	Medium term: Years 3-4
Lobby municipal, provincial, & federal governments for better rural transportation policies ³	Advocate for lower gas taxes, resources for bike lanes, paths, & other infrastructure	Ongoing

³ As an important vehicle for improved public policy, advocacy work weaves through this action plan. Advocacy actions are shaded grey.

Housing

I lived in a basement apartment for two years. The rent was $700/month. Our landlord considered the apartment to be a 2-bedroom, but the "second bedroom" was so small that we couldn't fit a bed in it. So we had to use the other bedroom, which had no window. There was only one window in the whole apartment. And he could get away with that.

When we moved in, the first thing our landlord said, "The first time I see you have over five people visiting, you are kicked out right away. No drinking, no drugs, and if I get a first call from neighbors you're out." But then we had a baby, and these four or five girls moved in beside us. They were so loud that we couldn't sleep for a whole year. It was unbelievable. And he never once went there.

I know a young woman who couldn't get an apartment because she had a child. That's a human rights violation. But a lot of landlords put stipulations on their rental properties.

We take our seniors out of our community and we put them in the RK etc., and in Guysborough. I don't know why we can't keep our seniors here in the community in a nursing home. I don't know how many healthcare providers and personal care workers we have here. Why couldn't we build a little on, and hire people for the kitchen, grounds, housekeeping, a nursing home would benefit seniors, give them a place to stay, but then there are other spin-offs.

Housing is so expensive, because of the university. Apartments close to St FX are super expensive. And for low income housing, you wait on the list forever. There are still some St FX students who don't have a place to stay. It's a huge freshman class.

Action Priorities: HOUSING

Leads: APRC Housing Working Group

Stakeholders: People in need of affordable housing, municipal councils, financial institutions, businesses, community organizations, local seniors and youth, St FX students, Celtic Homes

Food Security

We're told that we should have everything natural and organic, and I try to buy as much as I can, but it's very very expensive. And I think that has to be addressed. And trying to buy local—my family recently planted a garden, so I feel really good about that. We have chickens, and we're trying to do our best.

When grocery stores have sales, like ten food items for $10? Those sales are for the middle class. Poor people don't have $10 to spend on one item. That $10 may need to go toward their entire grocery list for the week.

I pick fallen apples off crab apple trees to make apple sauce. What else can we do? There must be something out there. Why not put a food bank in Tracadie? At least a little closer for us.

We stock up on canned foods. My mom just can't afford [fresh produce] anymore. It's just been getting harder and harder. My parents will buy us one big thing a year, but basically we are living to paycheque to paycheque.

I've been here for 11 years, and we haven't gotten a raise in anything for food. Being a diabetic, I'd like more money for fruit and vegetables. But that's just me. If I had more money I would be interested in buying much healthier food.

Action Priorities: FOOD SECURITY

Leads: Antigonish Food Security Coalition (AFSC)⁵

Income Security

When you have a cheque for $400 and you have to pay $20 what do you have left? And then you've got your light bill—your light bill costs $200 or $300. As my mother used to say, you've got to rob Peter to pay Paul.

I am on disability and I get $455 per month. $200 on rent, $55 for life insurance. Not to mention heat, electricity, food. What are you supposed to do? You tell us. How long would you last on $200? Not long I bet. Not even a week!

Is there an opportunity to lobby for increased social assistance, increased minimum wage? Allowing people to work a decent number of hours before cutting their assistance, and not penalizing their child tax supplement until they're making $50,000. We need well paid maternity leaves with full benefits. If we put money into these things now, down the road we will see reduced crime and many other outcomes. It would take a lot of money up front, yes, but down the road children would be educated and healthy. Healthcare costs would be reduced.

Jobs are another big issue. If we had jobs, we would have money, if we had money, we could buy nutritious food, we could afford housing, we could buy a car... We don't have any economic basis for within the Black community. If we could come up with an idea to build an economic base within the Black communities... We need to get a job creation program going for the Black community.

Most of our community is senior citizens. There are no jobs. I have a 34 year old daughter, She'd love to come home, but there's no job. And no housing. There is a rotating door- a little part time job, then you go on EI.

My mother went on disability a few years ago. She has MS. She is in constant pain. She spends $700 a month on medication, and her disability doesn't pay for it. My father doesn't have the best job. He is looking at going out west to find work because it's just getting ridiculous.

Education

I don't know how people pay for school supplies if they don't have much money. There are 6 kids in my family, and when we were all in school, my parents would spend $400-500 a year on school supplies.

People are criticized for buying cigarettes or KFC—they are human beings! They should not have to eat dirt because they are poor. There is still so much judgment.

It would be good for employers to go to a meeting about what it's like living with a mental illness. They could be educated and find out more, so they can deal with people who have mental illnesses. My boss is like that. He treats me very well. If I need to take time off, he lets me go. I'm fortunate.

I have heard community members complaining because they see fancy cars in the food bank parking lot and think that they shouldn't be there. But the cars belong to volunteer drivers! Do they really think that people who can afford their own food would go there, wait in lined for canned goods, if they really didn't need it?

I think they should have a program where you donate left over school supplies at the end of the year, and pool them together. Then when everyone starts school again, they can choose what they need. People throw everything out at the end of the year.

Childcare

Childcare is a definite issue for people. For some, it's cost—most childcare places charge $30 a day, and then depending on your income and how many hours you are getting... if your employer cuts back on your hours... Or is there a space for you? Sometimes that's an issue. Some people go the private route, but that's not always easy, not always reliable or easy to find someone responsible and with good references. I think that's another huge issue.

I wish we had universal childcare. I wish that every child had the best start. So that they are all at the same level. We know that county kids are not ready for school, but town kids are. Is it isolation, or maybe they can't get into childcare. I don't know.

Daycares usually run from 9-5. If you had someone working at Walmart, a shift from 2-8, where would they go for childcare? You have to be a teacher. You have to work 9-5, if somebody is going to fit into your schedule. And most daycares close for the summer, or do not take infants under a year. Or require that children be potty-trained. There are also specific subsidies—for example, part time daycare is not covered by subsidies.

Just this year, childcare went up $3 a day. By the time my kids are in school, I will be paying $45 a day. And when was the last time our wages went up?

Think of the single mom who stays home because she can't afford daycare. If she were working minimum wage and paying for childcare, she'd be in the hole. And think if she could afford daycare, if it was subsidized, she could go out and get her education or get a decent full-time job. But there is the stereotype—there is the judgment call that she just doesn't want to work.

Action Priorities: CHILDCARE

Health Services

This summer, I had a toothache where a filling fell out. The tooth was completely savable, but it would have been $900 and it wasn't covered by the province. But extraction was covered, so I lost my tooth. The whole idea that dental isn't included in medical care... Strangely enough, my mouth is connected to my body. If I hadn't taken care of the tooth, it could have led to other health issues.

I feel that the healthcare system is too focused on treatment. We know that poverty is responsible for poor health, but we are doing such minimal work on poverty. And then the healthcare system has to absorb the costs of treating chronic illness and such, but we're not putting anything in prevention.

Health issues here: Diabetes, hypertension, high blood pressure, the works. We got it all. People have all these health conditions but no transportation or private health plans. Some people are in the bracket where they don't yet get a pension. Many don't get CPP so they're on social assistance. They have high cholesterol, hypertension, this or that, so they're on social assistance and trying to live off $400 a month.

Are there mental health issues here? Yes. Schizophrenia, bipolar. There is no support for mental health issues. People don't want to go to the doctor. Some times you have to wait 3 hours. And emergency, 4 hours. And if you get a drive, they are waiting for you for three hours. So when you get in, you are so aware of that you forget what you wanted to ask for. It's hard to concentrate.

Why don't doctors step up to the plate and speak up for us? For awareness in the community?

You know how valuable ordinary people are to me? They may clean the garbage at the hospital, or they may sweep the streets, but if they have something positive to say, or a joke, it makes me feel like people care. And there are nurses and doctors too that are losing a lot, not accepting other ways. There are negative people, but I just need to talk myself through it. I don't need to feel it, what they say about a mental patient. But there are people who are a big help, like people who work with people with disabilities.

⁸ GASHA (Guysborough Antigonish Strait Health Authority) currently takes a lead role on many of these items. It has formed a Social Justice Health Equity Committee and works closely with First Nations, Acadian, and African Nova Scotian communities on various initiatives, including cultural safety training. GASHA has a process to refer people to Family Pharmacare and provides other pharmacy supports including advocacy for coverage. Two GASHA representatives also sit on the Coordinating Committee of the APRC.

Recreation

There is literally nothing to do. Should we see a movie or go bowling? We should have an entertainment centre, like the library, but has pool tables, where everyone takes turns to play, and volunteers run it. It wouldn't cost anything.

It's way too expensive to play sports. I stopped playing volleyball because I just couldn't afford to pay to go on some team. There should be a team where you don't have to pay money. Even on our town team you have to pay money. I think teams should have fundraisers to go on trips, and it shouldn't cost anything. A trip costs $300-400 to go on a trip, plus the time to drive there, and gas.

Because I'm a single parent, I don't have time for sports or that stuff. But it's expensive if you do.

I was never allowed to play sports as a kid. Transportation stuff, and my mother just couldn't afford it. My brother and I were denied it from the time we started school to now. I tried to get into soccer when I was younger, the school tried to help out, but it just didn't work. When I was in elementary at the Education Centre, there was a free after school program that involved learning about sports. I did that. Then we moved out into the county and it was impossible.

There should be a place where you can get second hand equipment. It's so expensive. You can't get hockey gear if you buy it or get it from a family member.

I want to get a Boys and Girls Club built and see if somebody can donate a piece of land for all the teenagers who are looking for places for skateboarding and bike tricks.

I tried out the gym for a free week, but then they wanted me to come back again and again. And I couldn't afford it.

I think part of the problem about getting youth out, there are not many kids still out here. We used to have a soccer field and recreation out here, but instead of having events here, everything happens in town.

About Us

In 2010, the Antigonish Poverty Reduction Coalition (APRC), an alliance of about 50 individuals, groups, and organizations concerned with poverty alleviation, was formed to address how poverty affects the health and well being of our community and each of us.

On May 2nd, 2011, The Antigonish Poverty Reduction Coalition launched a new project called "Poverty Reduction Begins with Each of Us." We thank the generous project sponsors: Agriculture Canada, The Bergengren Credit Union, and the Guysborough Antigonish Strait Health Authority (GASHA).
